Academic programme

The Diploma and University Master in Advanced European Studies (DAES) is an interdisciplinary postgraduate programme dealing with institutions, law, economics and policies of the European Union.

The Faculty includes top-level directors from the European Institutions, University Professors as well as experts in European and International issues.

Training is carried out on a full-time basis over one academic year and includes lectures, lectiones magistrales, conferences, study visits to organizations, institutions and companies, as well as debates, workshops and group activities.

After having successfully passed all exams, and thus having obtained their Diploma in Advanced European Studies, DAES graduates can achieve a University Master's Degree by writing and defending a Master thesis with one of the universities with which the European College has entered into specific agreements for that purpose.

Working languages

Lectures and academic activities are carried out in three languages: English, French and Italian, with English prevailing as working and teaching language.

In order to enable students to enhance their language competences – essential for international careers – specific language courses in the three working languages are carried out, in particular during the first semester.

The European College of Parma organises traineeships for its graduates within organisations, companies, public offices, professional associations, law firms, etc. at national levels as well as at
